ONE MORE THING: From the lands where coffee really is the star fruit, comes this bright, fresh 2017 harvest. Money grows on trees in these parts, albeit not year round in the form of a weekly pay cheque. So pre-harvest, Kenyan coffee societies give farmers advances for their school fees & their farm inputs. Farmers intercrop, mostly with maize & bananas, for their food & cash crops. The lump sum comes when their coffee is sold & the cycle begins anew. Enjoy this coffee from three Nyeri villages, produced by approximately 1100 farmers, each with around 250 star coffee trees.
