ONE MORE THING: As is the case with most coffees, months passed by in between approving this sample & receiving shipment. Floral memories lingered as the coffee did its time in a queue at the dry mill, waiting to be stripped of its protective parchment layer before being graded by screen size, density, colour, then hand sorted. A little delicious taste again as we receive the final sample...then weeks more waiting while the coffee is at sea. Ah but here it finally is, those florals, black tea & grapefruit notes every bit as delicious as the 1st sample. Enjoy our 1st Ethiopia '17 harvest showcase!
