ONE MORE THING: Nothing to do with OutKast, Haya was the name of the tribe in Tanzania that coffee can first be attributed to in the 16th century. What followed was decades of German, then British Colonial rule and the kind of coffee not touted by specialty roasters. However in recent years, smallholder growers in Southern Tanzania have been showing us what quality can emerge from high altitudes, cold nights & careful growing & processing. The Ilomba Best AMCOS Farmer Group is a prime example. We hope you love the first of our 2021 Tanzania offerings & keep an eye out for a few more gems to come.
