ONE MORE THING: Sometimes you have to just believe. There is no better example of this than this Peru COE. After losing most of his crop to leaf rust in 2014, producer Lucio Luque Vasquez could have settled and gone for a more robust, plague resistant coffee plant. Instead, he took a risk on the delicate SL-09 variety. Under his careful eye, his plants have produced a coffee with notes of jasmine florals, juicy nectarine, peach & panela. An ode to the powers that be, albeit the power of altitude.

V60:

15g/ 250g/ 3:00 mins/ 95°

BATCH:

60g/L or 72g/1.2L

BARISTA NOTE: Dispense the water over 5 pours with 30 sec between each. A coarser grind worked best for this recipe. The pours were 60g/40g/50g/50g/50g.
